During this study you will have the opportunity to discuss HIV-related stressors or romantic relationships with a health professional over the phone.

These telephone counseling sessions may help improve the quality of your romantic and sexual relationships and alleviate distress you may be experiencing. However, these activities are part of the research study and are not treatment.

Are you eligible to participate?

Complete a short online survey at:

<https://is.gd/projectbridge>

Your time and compensation

Participants can earn up to $200 for full participation over the course of the study. All participants will complete

- 1) A brief telephone screening
- 2) Five mailed or online surveys
- 3) Five telephone interviews
- 4) Five telephone counseling sessions

Throughout the course of this 12-month study, participation will require approximately 10-12 hours total.
